When a devastating earthquake hit Pakistan in 2005, Cuba sent 2,500 doctors, medical supplies and field hospitals to help, and continued working with local people in the worst effected areas long after the TV cameras and other agencies had left.

Come and see the short film On the slopes of the Himalayas, a moving first hand account of Cuba’s humanitarian response to the 2005 Pakistan earthquake and find out about Cuba’s inspirational international medical brigades first hand.

with very special guest from Cuba:

Dr Juan Carlos Dupuy Núñez

Head of Cuba’s Henry Reeve emergency medical brigade and leader of the 2,400 strong team that treated 1.7 million people following the Kashmir earthquake in October 2005.

All welcome
